The ECEA will return to A or B classes only those riders who are totally non-competitive in the upper class and will not return a rider who would dominate the lower class returning to. A rider may only be returned once and, if applicable, will begin accumulating points through the AMA's Advancement System. B riders may not return to the C class except by appeal to the AMA. If a rider is caught competing in the wrong class, the rider will lose all championship points accumulated to date and be moved into the proper class.

Riders between the ages of 12 and 16 riding in the B class shall not be forced into the A class regardless of how many B races or promotion points they have. Riders in this age group may advance based on their own ability and competence.
